A large, ancient wooden shipwreck, the De Batavia, is displayed in a museum. The ship's hull, constructed from thick, dark wooden planks, is the central focus. The planks are arranged in a curved, overlapping fashion, showing the ship's structure. The wood is heavily weathered, with many small holes and cracks visible. The ship is positioned diagonally across the frame, from the bottom left towards the top right. In the background, the museum's interior is visible, featuring a high ceiling with exposed wooden beams and several large, rectangular light fixtures. A wooden railing runs along the left side of the ship, and a staircase is visible in the distance. The overall lighting is warm and focused on the ship, highlighting its historical significance.
